Fund Manager Commentary

December was a challenging month for equity markets with global equities falling just over 7% in the month, with the fund falling around 50bps less. Investors were particularly concerned regarding Federal Reserve commentary following the fourth interest rate hike of the year which indicated continued tight monetary policy in the face of deteriorating economic data and benign inflation. Geopolitical tensions continued to contribute to the volatility with the ongoing trade dispute between US and China showing signs of impacting the Chinese economy through weak manufacturing and services data. While targeted stimulus has been approved, specifically around bank liquidity and credit availability, it comes against the backdrop of the ongoing deleveraging focus. In the US, the reality of mid-term election result has very quickly manifested in a partial government shutdown and impasse on key election policies around immigration. In terms of stock specific performance, Bingo Industries was the primary detractor as competition authorities in Australia signalled intent to review its recent acquisition. This was offset by strength in Taiwanese based electromagnetic compatibility tester Sporton International, which is a key beneficiary of increased global connectivity and 5G. We continue to look for strong value opportunities through this period of significant volatility.
