Fund Manager Commentary

European equities fell in August, as forward indicators suggested that growth may slow, geopolitical concerns increased as President Trump's trade war began to bite, Italy's radical government suggested they might breach the EU's fiscal rules and emerging markets suffered a currency crisis with the Turkish Lira falling sharply. The fund generated a negative return but proved relatively resilient, outperforming its equity benchmark over the month despite the negative headwind from the underperformance of value compared to growth over the period, as the fund follows a value orientated strategy. Many value style companies traded down including Michelin, Imerys, PostNL and Autoliv, all of which were already trading on attractive multiples. The fund also suffered from continued weakness in the Telecom sector, with holdings in KPN and Telefonica falling in value. The fund benefitted from strong performance of holdings in Metro, Carl Zeiss Meditec and ASR Nederland. We believe the sharp de-rating of value companies compared to growth is unwarranted and unsustainable in the longer term. This represents a good opportunity to increase holdings in high quality companies, now trading over very attractive multiples.
